True Runes are not symbols only, but reifactors: they can be used to bring a thing or condition into being or bring about an event. To write such a rune is to act. The power of the action varies with the circumstances. Most of the True Runes are found only in ancient texts and lore-books, and used only by wizards trained in their use; but a good many of them, such as the symbol written on the door lintel to protect a house from fire, are in common use, familiar to unlearned people..and Serriadh the peacemaker, and Elfarran of Solea, and Morred, the White Enchanter, the beloved."My people, the Kargs, they worship gods. I wanted you to trust me enough to tell me your name.She was getting used to his strange face now and was able to read it. She thought that he looked sad. His way of speaking was harsh, quick, dry, peaceable. The men of the Isle are not always wise, eh?" he said. "Maybe the Doorkeeper." He looked at her now, not glancing but squarely, his eyes catching and holding hers. "But there. In the wood. Under the trees. There is the old wisdom. Never old. I can't teach you. I can take you into the Grove." After a minute he stood up. "Yes?"..behind existed now only in my memory..The next day she said, "I'm going to sit under the trees." Not sure what was expected of him, he followed her at a distance till they came to the inmost part of the Grove where all the trees were of the same kind, nameless yet each with its own name. When she sat down on the soft leaf mold between the roots of a big old tree, he found himself a place not far away to sit; and as she watched and listened and was still, he watched and listened and was still. So they did for several days. Then one morning, in rebellious mood, he stayed by the stream while Ember walked into the Grove. She did not look back..would hear that cough, this time? He smiled at young Rose, and the mother's heart lifted. Surely."If I lie down I won't get up. I want to see the Mountain..". "Dirt's easier to keep clean," he said, knowing the struggle already lost. It was true that all. Reluctant, he stepped forward, barefoot and bare-legged; he had rolled up his cloak into his pack. There was an old man by our door. "As long as I like.". The Patterner pushed four pebbles into a little curve on the sand and said, "I wish the Sparrowhawk had not gone. I wish I could read what the shadows write. But all I can hear the leaves say is change, change... Everything will change but them." He looked up into the trees again with that yearning look. The sun was setting; he stood up, bade her goodnight gently, and walked away, entering under the trees..sat down on the pallet, and went on thinking. The prisoning spell was still there, yet it had no farewell, knowing that with the last, dying sound more than the song would end. I had not known. A slight, brown man sitting at the table looked up at him..She said, "I know.". fountain; I got up, walked on in the spreading light of the new day, until I woke from my stupor. He went slowly round to the eastern side of the hilltop, bright and warm already with the light of the sun a couple of fingers' width above the horizon. Looking under the sun he saw the roofs of a town at the head of a bay that opened out eastward, and beyond it the high line of the sea's edge across half the world. Turning west he saw fields and pastures and roads. To the north were long green hills. In a fold of land southward a grove of tall trees drew his gaze and held it. He thought it was the beginning of a great forest like Faliern on Havnor, and then did not know why he thought so, since beyond the grove he could see treeless heaths and pastures..rooted to the spot, but the other person, a stout individual in orange, fell down, and something with them when I left.
